

A new, interactive and exciting workshop for pharmacists

Good communication skills will support you in delivering high quality patient-centred consultations in every discussion you have with a patient, whether it is during an MUR, an NMS intervention or when discussing healthy lifestyle choices

Even if you feel confident in your approach to patient discussions - how do you know you are really getting it right and working in partnership with the patient?

Why not come along to CPPE's Confidence in consultation skills workshop. Here you will learn about the different skills and models you can use to develop your own style of consultation which will help you deliver quality consultations that are effective for both you and the patient.

The next event in your area is:
